BEST PRACTICE

Best Practice - I

UPGRADATION OF LAW LAB

GOAL : To impart practical inputs of professional and vocational skills among law students.

Context: As a professional institute, we get feedback from Bench / Bar and Corporate sector about lack of adaptability skills and professional competence when students go to profession or legal vocation as the case may be.

The Practice: A full fledged law lab was established. A team was set up under the guidance of senior faculty members to collect day to day legal documents such as sale deed, gift deed, wills, company share certificates, prospectus, shares, passbook samples, cheques, copies of plaint, written statement, interim orders, bail petitions, injunction orders, court and lawyers notice, copy of summons, writ petitions, examples of public interest litigations, bank agreements, negotiation deeds and host of civil and criminal records, decisions of early courts in India and were placed in methodological and subject wise order in a specially designed cupboards. Specially printed sheets were prepared showing charts in chronological order of various landmark legal events, hierarchy of courts, International adjudicatory forums.

Whenever a subject say company law is taught a teacher takes a sample of MOU or articles of Association to class and shows and gives first hand information about these documents. It helps the students to go through the documents and sometimes faculty gives the exercise to draft the same deeds.

The result is obviously seen in annual campus recruitment where recruiters really astonished about the practical information which the students can give about some of these items which otherwise could be understood only when they enter into profession or vocation.

Best Practice - II

MOU with Legal Institute of Par Excellence

GOAL :	To learn the best of legal training and latest process of legal learning
Context:	As being a law institute, we need to update the best system of inputs of legal education of national law school of par excellence. It enables us to understand process of new pedagogy of law teaching, contemporary subjects of law, etc.
The practice:	A MOU was entered into with the National Law School India University, Bangalore, to organise workshops, seminars, faculty and student exchange programmes. A training cum workshop for lawyers and law teachers on the topic, 'cyber law and cyber security' and Four Days Professional Development Work Shop for Advocates and Law Teachers in Association with IBA-CLE centre NLSIU Bangalore on 'Consumer Protection In An Age Of Market Economy And Globalisation'. Stalwarts of national Law School, Bangalore such as Prof. Nagaratna, Dr. Sairam Bhat, Dr. Ashok delivered talks on various aspects of law.
The outcome:	Teachers have learned new methods of teaching consumer law and cyber law. The teachers of law in action and theory were helpful to all the stakeholders.
